Transitions

The theme of the 1985 Blueprint is "Transitions." Each of us experience changes in our lives. We begin changing from the very moment we are born, and the transitions continue for the remainder of our lives. So it is with Bluefield State College. From the small beginnings of Bluefield Colored Institute, it has steadily progressed into the institution as we know it today. The 1985 Blueprint reflects these changes, as it is experiencing changes itself. Under the capable leadership of Jim Worsham, the new advisor, the 1985 staff will attempt to take you through the college transitions from the past to the present.

“TRANSITIONS”

Since the beginning, the institute now known as Bluefield State College has been an institute full of change. In 1905, while operating under the title of Bluefield Colored Institute, the college was not actually a college, but rather a high school. With the aid of the Negro Advisory Council, the school was raised to Junior College status in 1920 with R.P. Sims acting as the first president of the advancing institute. Then on August 20, 1922, Bluefield Colored Institute was authorized by the state board to offer full college courses. Seven years later, the class of 1929, consisting of four men and four women, graduated with Bachelor of Science degrees. From there the institute trudged on assuming new titles and adding to its college curriculum.

The Blue Demons faded into the background. On May 8, 1981, Dr. Dugger announced Bluefield State would no longer field an intercollegiate football team.

Below: The Blue Demons in action. (Big Blues)

HOMECOMING PARADE?

Left: Traditionally Bluefield State College used to have a homecoming parade with all the trimmings. Floats would adorn the streets of downtown Bluefield. Marching bands and clowns joined in the fun. Unfortunately, when the football team faded into the background — the parade ended and Bluefield State saw the last of marching bands and paper flowers.

In 1931, the name of the institute was changed to Bluefield State Teachers College. Bluefield State began to expand its campus.

Construction on the campus: In 1930 Conley Hall was erected. It then housed the Science Department and its labs, English Department, Business Department, Administrative offices, and the business offices.

The library was located in Mahood Hall. On the morning of April 23, 1937, a fire raged through the building virtually consuming the entire library collection. Construction of a new library began next to Conley Hall and on December 3, 1938, the new building was dedicated. On January 10, 1970, an addition to the library was approved.

Dickason Hall was dedicated in 1952 with an addition being approved in the fall of 1970. The addition now houses the computer center and nurses center.

Construction of the Student Union began in 1962 and was finished by the 1963-64 academic year.

In 1966, the Health and Physical Education Building was built.

In 1970, construction of the Basic Science Building began. Before 1970, the site was occupied by Arter Hall, the old gymnasium, which was demolished. The building was opened for use in the fall of 1971. The Science Department was moved to Basic Science after a chemist almost destroyed Conley Hall when he combined the wrong ingredients. Mahood Hall was remodeled and the Business Department was moved from Conley Hall to Mahood Hall.

Above: Conley Hall the oldest building on campus.
Below: A view of Mahood Hall (then the women's dorm) from the front of Conley Hall. Notice the flag pole and circle driveway.

Right: The finished product — a picture of the Basic Science Building as we know it today.

In 1895, the site consisted of four acres. Then in 1916 it was decided by a council to retain the present site and purchase additional acreage. As a result of this, Mahood Hall, Lewis Hall, and Payne Hall were erected. (These all served as dorms for the men and women — Mahood women's dorm, Payne men's dorm, Lewis women's dorm.)

BSC AND THE FUTURE —

Dr. Jerold O. Dugger, President BSC

Bluefield State College has over the years established itself as a reputable and effective college. It has fulfilled its mission very well. The successes of the past, as impressive as they have been, do not guarantee the college's role in the future. The college will have to provide a high quality education and make it accessible to the citizens of the service area and beyond. This is going to require dedication, flexibility and hard work beyond what most of us have known. The model that was effective in the past will not necessarily be the right one for the future.

The future of Bluefield State College will depend upon its ability to provide a solid academic background for students, equip them with occupational competencies, and attend to their social, cultural and personal development. This must all be done within an intellectually stimulating atmosphere. The college must always be out on the cutting edge of the future but must never lose its firm grasp on the past.

The ingredients for future success are present. With students, faculty, and staff working together to assure a high quality education geared to the realities of the 1990's, I predict that the future of Bluefield State College will be bright indeed.

ALUMNI PROFESSIONALS

Earl S. Whiteley, Admin. Welch Hospital

"The RBA Degree Program at "BSC" has offered me the opportunity to address an occupation that I would not have normally had. As a result of this program, I have been able to contribute to my own benefit and work in a very exciting and rewarding field of health care."

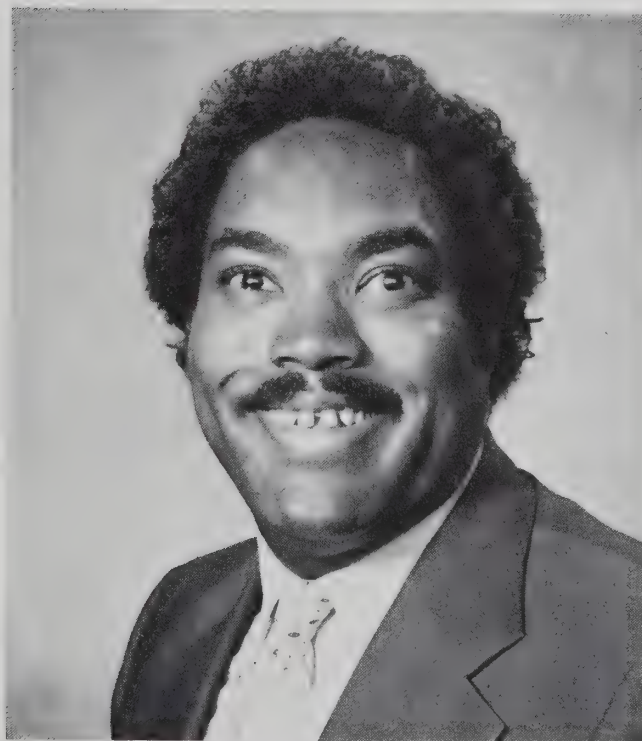

Steve Bourne

Graduated from BSC in 1974 with an A.S. degree in Mining and a B.S. degree in Business Administration. Steve received his M.S. degree in Business from Radford University and came back to BSC in 1978 as coach of the football team and instructor of business. While continuing to teach, Steve is working on his doctorate at VPI. "BSC does an excellent job of making education practical and useful."

Rama Cardwell

Graduated from BSC in 1982 with an A.S. degree in elementary edu. Rama now teaches special education at both Cumberland Heights and Ceres Elementary Schools. "The instructors guidance gave me an air of professionalism and enthusiasm toward education."

J. Franklin Long, Attorney

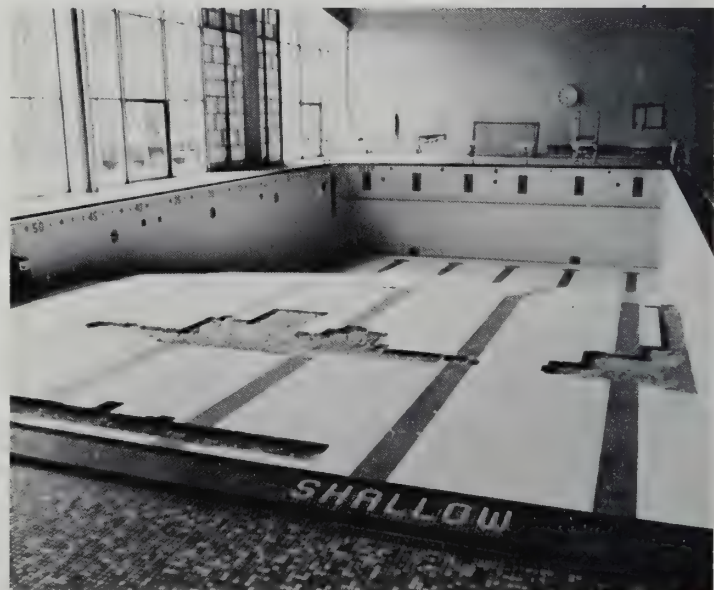

"I found that the academic background that I received at BSC enabled me to compete in law school with all types of students, including those who received undergraduate degrees from such prestigious institutions as Harvard and Yale."

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Education at Bluefield State College has been enhanced through the construction on campus. The pool has provided many hours of enjoyment through the years; it has come time to replace the tiles for present and future students to enjoy swimming.

BUILDING CONSTRUCTION

The new room has been built in the Physical Education Building for such classes as tumbling, gymnastics, and human movement. This room will be in use the Spring of 1985.

FASHION FOR THE

THE QUEST FOR HIGHER ED

Sometimes a chat on a landing . . . Or sometimes we must go underground to get around . . . And sometimes we must climb by ourselves. Many transitions on the BSC campus involve the change from lower to higher ground. Such is the nature of our mountain-side campus.

From wherever you park, you eventually must climb the hill, and then back down again.

Bluefield State has its ups and downs.

SPECIAL THINGS FOR

Bluefield State College is making the transition into the future to aid the Disabled Students. Alma Gibson and Aaron Poff are only two of our several disabled students. B.S.C. provides tutors, tapes and tape recorders for the visually impaired students, and whatever the students need to aid in the learning process. B.S.C. is planning to install an elevator in Dickason Hall, and a lift at the Library to make these buildings accessible to all students.

Looking through the eyes of love.

If you can see what I hear.

SPECIAL PEOPLE

These changes around campus will give these students more independence. If you have a disability or a special need arises let Special Services or Academic Vice President James O'Hara know about your need. They are willing to help in any possible way.

Aaron Poff

He loves his independence.

The High School Model United Nations Security Council Session is based on the notion of "learning by doing." It is believed that by slipping into the role of a delegate from the country you are representing, you will learn about that country, the issues involved, the Security Council of the U.N., and the complexity of contemporary international relations.

The Jazz Ensemble of 1984 conducted by William B. Caruth Jr.

William B. Caruth Sr. and William B. Caruth Jr.

The first Jazz Ensemble performance conducted by William B. Caruth Sr. Date: Spring 1973-74.

Back in 1941 the first Bluefield Orchestra was organized by William B. Caruth Sr. It was discontinued briefly during World War II, but began again in 1945. But in 1957 the Bluefield Orchestra played for the last time.

Caruth Sr. taught music at Bluefield State College from 1967 until 1976 where William B. Caruth Jr. taught also beginning in 1973. A transition began with the organization of a Jazz Ensemble at BSC directed by Caruth Sr. in 1972; and in 1976, Caruth Jr. took over the tradition as director.

BLUEFIELD STATE BIG BLUES

After a rocky start, the 1984-85 basketball season has turned into a very satisfactory experience for Coach Terry Brown and his Big Blues. After a pre-holiday schedule which included eleven games on the road and none at home, the Big Blues finished the month of January with a 12-9 overall record and an 8-3 WVIAC slate, which was good enough for the 3rd place in the WVIAC.

Senior Rick Wilson, an honorable mention All WVIAC performer last year, has been the anchor for the Big Blues, leading the team in scoring and rebounding. Sammy Jones, Bob Bolen, Larry Kitchens, Curtis Ray, Roy Banjoman, and Deric Whitworth, all returning players from last year's squad, have been important cogs in the success of the surging Big Blues. Newcomers Jerry Saunders and Rick Akers have also made valuable contributions to the campaign.

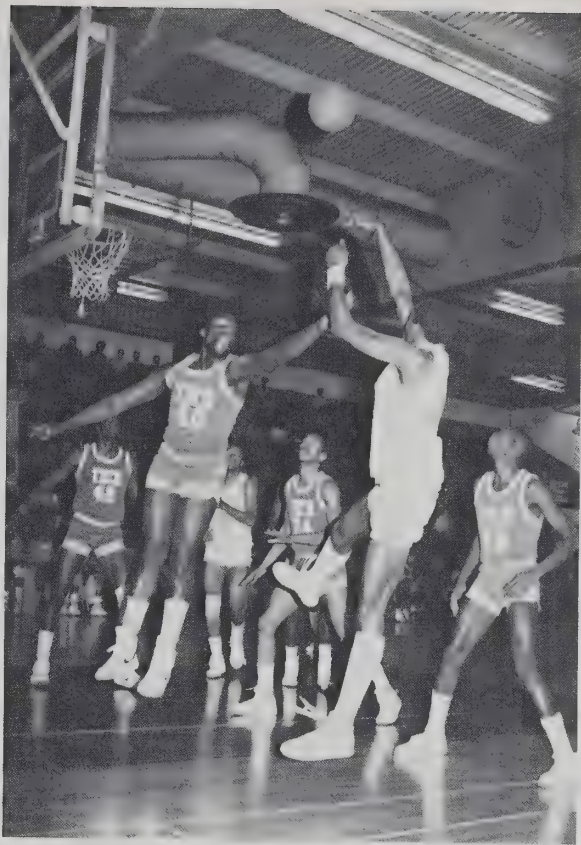

How will this story end? February holds many hurdles for the Big Blues including several key WVIAC match-ups and most important, the WVIAC tournament. Only time will tell.

Barry Blizzard,
Sports Information Director

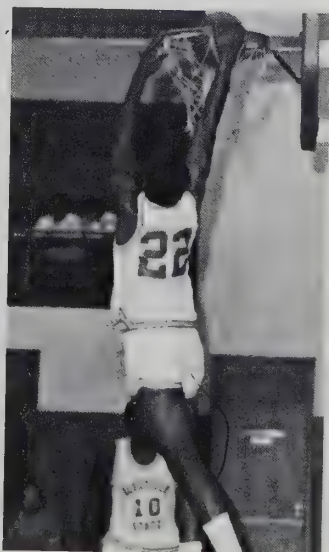

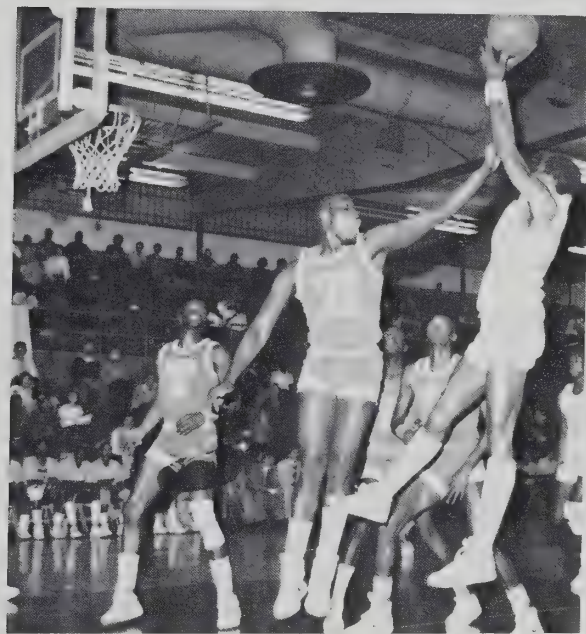

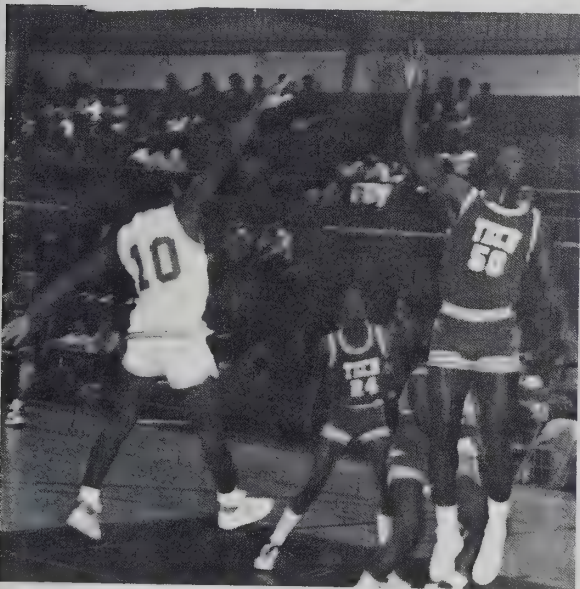

Jerry Saunders, #10, has his own style of making two points.

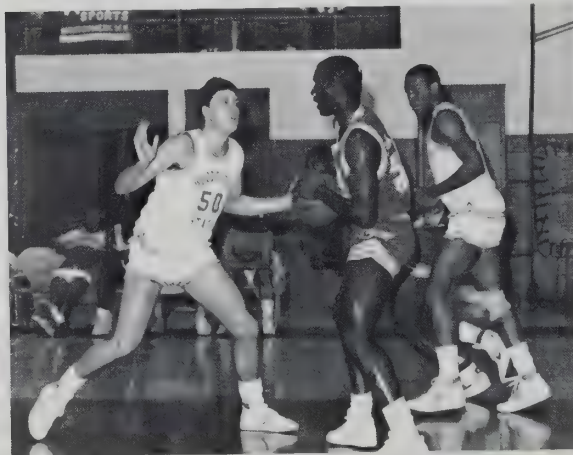

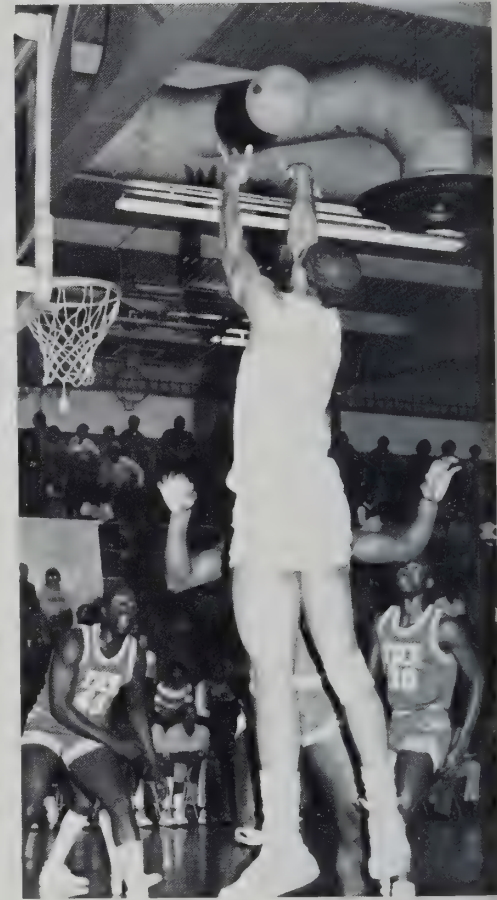

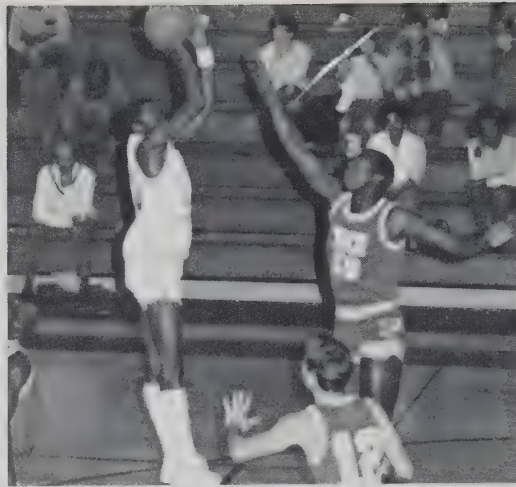

Rick Wilson, #30, goes to the basket with his accurate jump shot.

FANCY SHOTS

LADY BLUES

With 4 out of 5 starters returning from a 21-8 season, the outlook of the Lady Blues was positive. Honorable Mention All-American and WVIAC Player-of-the-Year Lynne Kelly returned for her junior year and her counter part, 3 time all conference player Pam Lucado, should lead the Lady Blues to their best season ever. A cast of experienced players, including 4 year starter Kim Townley and Robin Goings, and junior college standout Angie Fields anchored a lineup with much speed and offensive power with extraordinary reserve play from seniors Cindy Bowling and Sandra Fisher underneath the basket, and guard play of the sensational Dee Dee Hill and Sheila Huckleberry, the bench was rich and deep for the Lady Blues.

Freshmen making notice on the squad were forwards Karen Morgan and Sherri Asbury and pesky point guard Angie Overbaugh. Sheila Hubleberry will split time with others as a Freshman wing also.

At press time the Ladies were ranked No. #2 in the WVIAC with a 9-1 conference record and a 15-2 overall record. The foundation was set for the first women's conference championship and Coach Kenny Mandeville said, "We have played with consistency and desire so far this season. Hopefully these same elements will enable us to win the next six conference games to claim the conference title."

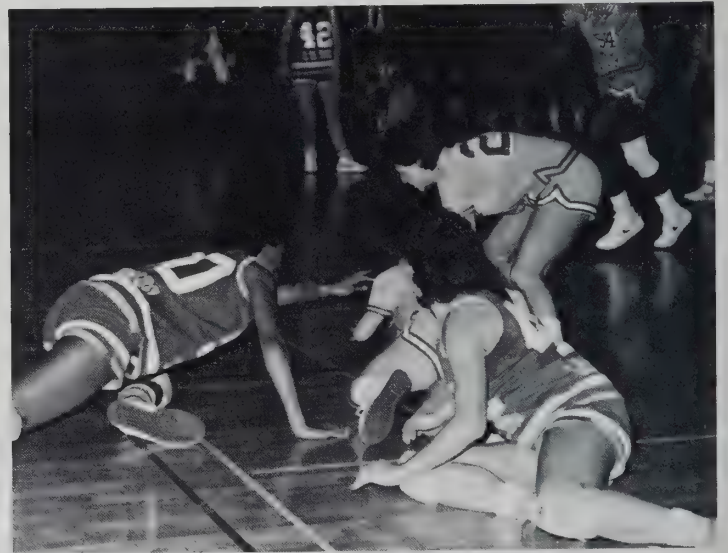

Lynne Kelly was heading the Lady Blues in scoring and rebounding with 19.0 pts/game and 11.5 reb/game. Second in scoring and rebounding was Pam Lucado at 15.8 pts/game and 6.4 rebounds. Kim Townley was a balanced offensive and defensive player with 5.0 assists and 3.1 steals per game and an average 7 pts/game. Angie Fields, at point guard, was also averaging in double figures at 10.5 pts/game. The enforcing Robin Goings had her best state of the year at 8.0 pts/game and 6 reb/game.

Overall the Ladies were first in offensive scoring in the conference and third in defense.

Lady Blues have the magic touch for making points.

HOMECOMING - 1985

Homecoming At BSC was held during the week of January 28-February 2. The candidates prepared for a hectic (but exciting) week. Each candidate was furnished with a list of requirements and a schedule of events when she filed for homecoming.

A photo session was scheduled for Jan. 22. Each candidate and the organizational queens had pictures taken for the Bluefield Day Telegraph. Meet the Candidates followed the photo session. This made it possible for the students to meet the candidates and the organizational queens. Elections were held on Jan. 29 and Jan. 30. Even though the winners were not announced then, the candidates felt a little more relieved.

On Feb. 1, the coronation ceremonies were held in the Basic-Science Auditorium. David Kellerman was emcee, and Donald Kensinger provided music. After the organizational queens were introduced, Patti Street (escorted by Jeff Handy) was announced as Miss Congeniality. The candidates were introduced next. The title of Miss Freshman went to Mary Gaminde. Tammy Devor (escorted by Tommy Harrison) was chosen as Miss Sophomore. Miss Junior was Ruth Ann Sharrock, escorted by Don Sharrock. Cookie Eastburn (escorted by Randy Colvard) was chosen as Miss Senior. The title of Miss BSC went to Vicki Jamison (escorted by John Haynes). Betty Underwood (Miss BSC-1984) was present to crown all of the winners. Cameras were flashing and the audience cheered as the homecoming ceremonies came to an end. A coronation ball followed at the Sheraton Inn in Bluefield.

Candidates for Miss BSC: Melody Carosi, Becky Smith, Lisa Dean, Vicki Jamison.

Miss Senior Candidates: Cookie Eastburn, Sandra Franklin, Miss Junior Candidates: Ruth Ann Sharrock, Sondra Robertson, Tammy Brown.

The yearbook staff in action. Margaret and Sandy leap for joy — the yearbook is finally finished. Lisa, Pam, and Steven are amazed at the way Sandy and Margaret took the news or should we say the fall.
